Sighting from around 1999

South East, South Australia

I was with my father, driving alongside the pine forests between xxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxxx south east SA. We were driving on the road past farms where the farms border the pine forests and we saw an animal crossing the field and running into the cover of the trees. I pointed it out to my Dad, and he said it was a thylacine and he told me you could know that because of the stripes on his rear end. The animal also seemed to move differently to a dog. My Dad also stated that he had seen many thylacines over the years that he had lived in the area. My Dad was a truck driver and a keen fisherman/outdoors man. He moved to the area in the late 1980's, and lived there up until 2006 when he passed away. I was around 10 years old at the time of the sighting. I have just been watching a documentary on investigating thylacines in the current day, I was not aware that people could register a sighting.
